DIME NOVELS.

Without reference to the recent unfortunate local occurrence, in nine cases out of ten, where a boy hurts one of his playmates with a deadly weapon, whether accidentally or intentionally, the boy behind the gun is a reader of dime novels. No father or mother who understands his or her obligations to the child will permit him to read such trash, but since many children are dime novel fiends without their parents' knowledge, we believe the next Legislature would be taking a progressive step by making it unlawful to sell minors such injurious literature. By so doing the Commonwealth would be spared many an infant Jesse James.

One candidate for Commissioner of Lexington will win sure if his fellow-citizens share his estimate of himself, made in the following modest manner: "I believe the men selected to serve the people, elective or appointive, should be clean, honest and sober men, and to that end I submit my claims to the people."

Read the Election Proclamation in this issue insuring a submission of the proposition for a commission plan of government for the county; proclaim the glad tidings to your neighbors, irrespective of party affiliations, and do your part in making the vote unanimous upon this question.

Let us again remind our fellow-Democrats of the city of the fact that they must register next Tuesday. While only our nominees for County Judge and Mayor have opposition, our duty to the party is in no wise diminished.

If Banker Hampton of Winchester should "stay in jail 'till he rots," upon whom would the joke be?

The Bain Lecture.

The lecture of Geo. W. Bain at the court house Friday night on "The Titanic Disaster and Its Lessons" was well received by a small but appreciative audience.

Mr. Bain is one of Kentucky's most gifted orators and a rare treat was missed by many who failed to attend his lecture.

Talk of a Big Fair in Winchester Next Year.

Mr. W. Hoffman Wood, secretary of the local fair, was in Winchester Saturday for the purpose of organizing a $6,500 stock company and holding one of the State's best fairs in the Clark county capital. The people of Winchester seem very enthusiastic over the project and a meeting of the Commercial Club to talk the matter over has been called for Oct. 8th.

Mr. Wood is a hustler, stands close with the horsemen and should the proposed fair prove a go he will have charge, which, together with the co-operation of the good people of Clark county, will assure Winchester one of the best fairs in the State.
